

HIPAA Privacy Consulting

The Office of Civil Rights is gearing up to conduct 1,200 HIPAA compliance audits. They are targeting 800 covered entities and 400 business associates. Unlike the initial round of audits where no fines were levied, significant financial penalties for non-compliance have been promised. Intrusive corrective action plans will be applied. These plans are time-intensive and costly to your operation.

Preparing for the audits can take your staff away from their important day-to-day duties. In addition, it is often difficult to objectively analyze internal documents and practices in the way an OCR auditor will. One of the best ways to review your preparedness is to conduct a mock audit to reveal missing components of your HIPAA readiness.
